

HMRL MD invites IITs to share ideas for metro rail works

Hyderabad Metro Rail Limited managing director N.V.S. Reddy has invited greater participation from IITs in upcoming Metro Rail expansion projects and expressed readiness to integrate innovative ideas from academia into future metro developments. Speaking as the chief guest at the 'Sustainable and Green Cities' meet organized by IIT Madras alumni and faculty in Hyderabad on Saturday, Mr. Reddy has called for greater collaboration between government bodies, industry stakeholders and research institutions. He emphasised the importance of IITs in fostering sustainable urban development in the country. IITM professors Ashwin Mahalingam, Manu Santhanam, Geethakrishnan, and several high-ranking engineers and scientists who graduated from IIT Madras took part in the session, said a press release.
